

"Waterbabies"

Chapter members divided into teams, each team donating some bottled water. The team who drinks the most ounces of water for the month wins all the water each team brought in. I have this on a poster board with each team having a name, and Captain. The team members are separated on the board with their team members and write in each week how many ounces of water they drank...Totalled by the team captain at the end of the month.