

Once Upon a Time In Camelot

(a skit written for Florida SRD)

- Once upon a time there was a young princess
- Who had met a handsome young prince
- they were children when they met each other
- And had stayed best friends ever since
- They frolicked and played and learned their lessons well
- They even practiced their charm and grace
- For everyone knew they had been betrothed
- And one day would take their parents place
- As the princess grew into a young maiden
- She was a KOPS, right then from the start
- And she knew that nothing would ever
- Keep her and Prince Charming apart.
- But she didn't know about the King
- Of the Wicked Forest of Fat
- He wanted her to marry his son
- The Prince of Pudding, at that
- So the King cast a spell on Prince Charming
- Turning him into a frog, so fat
- Knowing a princess, especially a KOPS
- Would never look at anyone like that
- So the princess searched, and she wondered
- Where had her Prince Charming gone?
- She vowed, never to stop looking
- Till she found the one her heart was set on
- Outside the KOPS Kastle there lived
- Two frogs, one fat and one slim
- The princess petted the slim frog
- And tickled him under the chin
- She told him all of her problems
- And asked why he couldn't be
- A frog that would turn into Prince Charming
- When she kissed him on the head, you see
- Her father, the King of KOPS, grew angry
- And said if her prince didn't come soon
- She would marry the Prince of Pudding
- at the very next full moon.
- The king took the poor slim frog
- And banished him far, far away
- So the princess could make up her mind
- Who she would marry some day.
- The princess, left sad and lonely

- Finally looked at the frog so fat
- Said she'd try to be his friend
- If he'd loose weight she'd even give him a pat
- The frog leaped and jumped all around
- And promised the pretty young miss
- He would surely lose a lot of weight
- If she would only give him one kiss
- The princess leaned over and kissed him
- Right smack on the top of the head
- And to her amazement, in a puff of smoke,
- Stood her prince charming instead.
- The Prince of Pudding was angry
- He screamed and yelled and whined
- He went to the King, his father
- and cried, "The princess is supposed to be mine!"
- The King of the Wicked Forest of Fat
- Told his son, "everything will turn out well
- I'll just go to see prince charming
- And put him under another spell".
- The king went to see prince charming
- And though he sweated and moaned and groaned
- None of the spells he tried to cast
- Would even begin to take hold
- Prince Charming just stood there and laughed
- And said "Your spell is not worth a dime
- A spell against someone of royal blood
- Can only be used one time"
- The Prince and Princess planned their wedding
- For friends, family and kin
- They even brought back from exile
- The little frog so slim.
- And so they were finally married
- To music, cheers and laughter
- And then, of course, like all fairy tales
- They lived happily ever after
